Project ACEe (Academic, Career and Educational experiences) is a Pipeline program sponsored by VCU School of Medicine designed to expose disadvantaged high school juniors and seniors to the medical profession by providing them with workshops and mentoring opportunities. The program meets regularly after school on Fridays from 3:30pm - 5:00pm.

Project ACEe aims to increase the number of health care practitioners from disadvantaged backgrounds who will practice in the state of Virginia. Preference is given to students attending Richmond Public Schools; however, students from the Greater Richmond Metropolitan area schools are welcome to submit applications for consideration.
